HE KNEW TOO MUCH.

AS A CONSEQUENCE HIS WEDDING COST HIM A LITTLE EXTRA.

He Was Not Jay, on His First Journey Away From Home, and Didn't Have to Show His Tickets—He Turned Out to Be a Pretty Good Sized Man After All.

O. P. Daly, general passenger agent of the Lake Erie and Western was standing one afternoon in the Union depot at Kansas City. The west bound trains had backed up on their allotted tracks and were receiving their passengers. A tall, well dressed man with a lady on his arm presently approached the rear sleeper on the Burlington train. Mr. Daly's experienced eye told him at a glance that they were bride and groom. Without hesitation or inquiry of any kind the man was proceeding to hand his bride up the steps of the Pullman sleeper when the conductor demanded his tickets.

"Oh, I have got my tickets all right," replied the tourist. "I know where I am going, and I don't need to show my tickets to you."

"I am very sorry at having to inconvenience you," replied the conductor affably, "but my instructions are not to allow any one to get on my train without first seeing his tickets."

"There is no law to make me show you my tickets," growled the man. "I haven't got to, and I don't mean to, I tell you. I know where I am going, I have got my tickets and am able to take care of myself. I am not a jay, out on my first trip abroad."

"I am sorry," again replied the conductor courteously, "but my instructions are peremptory. Stand aside, please, and let these other passengers into the car."

"Oh, show him your tickets, dear, and do not make all this fuss about so simple a matter," sweetly remarked the bride.

"No, I will not," replied the gentleman. "I haven't got to, and I don't mean to. I know where I am going, I have got my tickets and am able to take care of myself. I am not a jay, out on my first trip abroad."

"There is our superintendent of car service. You may speak to him about this matter," said the conductor as he saw his superior officer approach. "If he says you can board the car without showing your ticket, why, it will be all right."

"What is the trouble here?" asked the car superintendent as he came up to see what the altercation was about.

"Your conductor demands that I show him my ticket before I board the car," replied the man. "I say I have it got to and do not mean to. I know where I am going and am able to look after myself."

"Have you got your tickets?" asked the superintendent.

"Yes, I have them in my pocket all right. I know what I am doing."

"Have you got your sleeping car tickets?"

"Yes, I have it all right in my pocket. It is for section 7. I know what I am doing. I tell you."

"Oh, well, let the man on the car," said the superintendent. "If he has his tickets, as he says he has, it is no worth while contending with him over the matter and delaying the other passengers."

The conductor stepped aside and let the couple pass, calling the porter to take the tickets as he did so. Presently the train pulled out of the depot and was speeding across the prairies at a rapid rate, when the conductor began to collect the tickets in the sleeping car.

As he did so he noticed that all the seats in section 7 were occupied, and he immediately surmised that there was a peg out of place somewhere, and that there would be more fun with the obstreperous passenger. He kept his counsel to himself, however, and went on with his collections. When he reached section 7, he took the tickets of the two parties occupying the seats opposite his bride and groom, saw that they were for that section for the upper and lower berths respectively—and his surmise was thereby developed into a certainty. Without asking the man again for his ticket he passed through all the other sleeping cars on the train, took up all the tickets and found that every berth was occupied without leaving any for his friends.

"Tickets, please," demanded the train conductor. The man drew forth his pasteboards, and the conductor examined them closely.

"These tickets do not read over this road," remarked the conductor as he folded them up and handed them back. "This is the direct route to Denver from Kansas City. Your tickets read round by Pueblo."

"What is the fare from Kansas City to Denver?" asked the man.

"The fare is $18.15," replied the train conductor—"$36.30 for two." The money was counted out without a word.

"Can you sell me a berth?" asked the man, turning to the sleeping car conductor.

"I am very sorry, but every berth on this train is sold. The best I can do for you is to put you in a chair car. There are a few seats still unoccupied there. Porter, take this gentleman's traps to the chair car."

On reaching the door of the car the man turned, and in a tone of voice loud enough to be heard by every one in the car said:

"Conductor, at the suggestion of this lady, my wife, I want to make you a humble apology for my hogishness for refusing to show you my tickets in the first place. There was no occasion for it. I thought I could take care of myself, but now I find I cannot. I have had to pay for my ill breeding, but no more than I deserve. I want to apologize as publicly as the offense was committed. You have asked the gentleman all through this affair, and I now humbly apologize to you as I ought."—Chicago Post.

INCOME TAX BILL.

The Internal Revenue bill, which includes the income tax, has been agreed upon by the majority of the Committee on Ways and Means and will be acted upon in the House when the Wilson bill is disposed of by that body.

The bill provides for a tax on incomes to go into effect January 1, 1895, the first collection to be made July 1, 1895. All classes of incomes are included and a uniform tax of 2 per cent is imposed on all incomes exceeding $4,000. All persons whose individual income exceeds $3,500 are required to make a return to the local Internal Revenue Collector, but no tax will be levied on incomes less than $4,000. It was deemed advisable to leave a margin of $500 below the exemption amount in order that the returns might show all incomes subject to tax. If a person having an income of over $3,500 fails to make returns it is made the duty of the revenue officer to make inquiry as to the amount of such person's income, and if the inquiry discloses an income of over $4,000 it is subjected to twice the ordinary tax and the person will be liable to fine and imprisonment. No information as to the details of incomes reported by citizens can be made public, the penalty for violating this provision being a fine and imprisonment.

It is estimated that not more than 85,000 persons out of 12,000,000 voters, that is one out of about 150, will be subject to the tax, and the tax will be exclusively among the wealthy in the cities. The business of levying and collecting the tax is placed in charge of the internal revenue officials and when necessary deputy revenue collectors will be appointed especially for the purpose.

No measure yet introduced in Congress with a probability of becoming a law seems more equitable than the income tax. It effects but a small number of persons and only those who can afford to pay. If a person's income does not exceed $4,000 a year he does not have to pay the tax and if the income is not at least $3,500 the person is not required to make return to the Revenue Collector. It is contended in advocacy of the bill that property requires more protection than life, as it is more natural for a man to steal than to kill, therefore property should pay in proportion to its value for the protection of itself by the Government.

THE SILVER PRODUCT.

The silver product for the year 1893 in the United States, according to the report of President Valentine of Wells, Fargo & Co's. Express, was $38,491,521, which is $12,117,080 less than the product of the previous year. During the year there was exported to China, Japan and other Asiatic States, $67,715,003. Of this not one dollar ever returns to the United States. China, Japan and India are the grave yards of silver. It is a legal tender in those countries and they keep all they get of the metal. They absorb more silver in a year than was purchased under the Sherman act and are never satisfied.

The silver produced in the United States last year if coined into dollars would not be sufficient to give each inhabitant of the country one dollar apiece, yet the goldbugs insist that it would impair confidence and ruin our credit if the money of the country was inflated to that extent. With the gold product only $38,000,000, less than half a dollar apiece for the people of the United States, and one-half of that is used in the arts, it is contended that this country should be put on a gold basis financially, and that interest-bearing bonds, payable in gold, should be issued rather than coin the silver stored in the Treasury. It is not surprising that people are asking whether the adherents of the goldbug parties in the West, who uphold such a policy, are knaves or fools, and whether they should be electrocuted or trepanned?

The heirs of Colonel Nicholas Lutz of Reading, Pennsylvania, claim to have discovered in the archives at Washington, that he was not paid in full for flour and wheat furnished Washington's army. They will bring suit to recover $3,000, the amount claimed to be due, and interest, from the Government. This is one of the oldest claims yet made against the Government. Colonel Lutz was on Washington's staff and owned several flour mills at the time he was in Washington's army.

Boston's tax list shows receipts amounting to $11,673,973, collected principally from property of the assessed valuation of $924,184,900, being assessed at the rate of $12.80 per $1,000. Thirty-three persons and corporations pay 12 per cent of the entire tax.

The House of Representatives will probably declare that Secretary Carlisle has no authority to issue bonds. As the House cannot act on the question until the Wilson bill is disposed of the bonds may be sold before the House declares that there is no authority to issue them.

The Denver News says Lilinokalani now threatens to sue Cleveland for breach of promise.

It is officially announced that the Government of India does not propose to impose an import duty on silver.

Reports from the silver using countries of Asia states that the scarcity of silver currency is leading to a crisis.

CHINESE MUST REGISTER

So it Has Been Ordered by the Six Companies.

AGAINST ISSUING BONDS.

The Consideration of the Wilson Tariff Bill.

CHINESE SIX COMPANIES.

They Now Order Chinese Laborers to Register.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 19.—The Chinese Six Companies have issued an order to the Chinese laborers to register. The notice was posted up in Chinatown yesterday afternoon. They were not told to register under the old law before, and this comes as a surprise to those acquainted with the facts. Far from being told to register before, they were told not to register, but the companies have changed their minds. Following is a translation of the notice:

"Notice to Chinese laborers to register under the new law. You have six months' time. Register now and we will test the law afterwards. We notify all laborers to register. You have to give the date of your arrival in this country. The law was enacted Kuong Suey 19th, 9th month, 26th day. The President of the United States signed the bill that day. The time expires third month, 26th day. You have to register inside of these six months at the Registration Office and get your certificate of residence. One part of the edict in regard to Chinese labor coming into this country is that merchants, women and girls are not obliged to register unless they see fit. To register you require one witness. Any Chinaman will answer as a witness. It is not necessary to get a white witness. You require three photographs. No other expenses are required. If any Custom-house officer or any person asks an extra fee it is a swindle and you can have him arrested. Those who came here before Kuong Suey, 7th year, are entitled to register, all coming after that time have been smuggled in and cannot register." Kuong Suey 19, 12th mo. Signed by the Chinese Six Companies.

THE WILSON BILL.

Dalzell Arraigns Johnson. WASHINGTON, January 19.—The House Committee of the Whole resumed consideration of the Tariff bill, the pending amendment being that of Johnson of Ohio, placing steel rails on the free list.

Wilson asked unanimous consent that three hours be set aside next Monday for consideration of the amendment to the sugar schedule. Agreed to.

Dalzell then proceeded with his speech begun yesterday. He began by recapitulating the charges he had made against Johnson. He had shown, he said, that Johnson manufactured certain kinds of street railway rails behind the protection of 190 patents, and wanted railway rails to go on the free list; that he coerced his employees in the face of winter and starvation into accepting as wages one-third cash and two-thirds scrip, that he made untrue statements and had altered the stenographer's notes and the last script had been hawked about the streets of Johnstown, and had been bought in at a discount by a relative of Johnson before it was redeemed at par.

Johnson replied to Dalzell in the semi-humorous vein. He (Johnson) did not claim to be a philanthropist. Johnson's amendment to put steel rails on the free list was lost—79 to 100.

Henderson of Iowa offered an amendment to the substitute to the present law for the agricultural schedule. A long debate on agriculture ensued.

AGAINST ISSUING BONDS.

The Knights of Labor Will Test the Legality of the Act.

PHILADELPHIA, January 19.—The following was sent from headquarters of the Knights of Labor to J. R. Sovereign at Des Moines:

"Come to secure counsel to go before the United States Supreme Court immediately, and enter injunction proceedings against Carlisle restraining him from issuing the fifty million bonds. The interests of the people upon whom the burden of all the taxation to pay the interest and principal of these bonds fall, require that you should immediately take this step against the Secretary of the Treasury, enjoining him from incurring a further debt while the resources of the Government, if properly applied, are sufficient to meet all the lawful demands."

(Signed) JOHN W. HAYES, "Secretary and Treasurer."

"Des Moines, January 19.—John W. Hayes, 814 North Broad street: The case was submitted to counsel. If there are reasonable grounds in which to force a standing in the court, injunction proceeding will begin at once."

"J. B. SOVEREIGN, "General Master Workman."

Views of the Farmer's Alliance.

CHICAGO, January 19.—At the annual convention of the Farmers' Alliance resolutions were adopted favoring regular and equitable distribution in the monetary system, prohibition of alien ownership, nationalization of means of transportation and communication, and the election of the President, Vice-President, United States Senators and Postmaster by a popular vote.

The resolutions further demand that the right of franchise be exercised without regard to sex and that there should be equal pay for equal work.

The resolution further declares that Secretary Morton does not represent the agricultural interests of the United States and urgently requests his resignation.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

M. Hammerly, a well-known business man of Hillsboro, Va., sends this testimony to the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: "Seven years ago, I hurt my leg, the injury leaving a sore which led to erysipelas. My sufferings were extreme, my leg from the knee to the ankle, being a solid sore, which began to exude a thick, yellow matter. After trying various remedies, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and before I had finished the first bottle, I experienced great relief. The second bottle effected a complete cure."

WEATHER BULLETIN.

Storm, Cold and Warm Waves—The Weather Question.

Copyrighted 1894 by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., January 19.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from January 19th to 23d, and the next will reach the Pacific Coast about January 24th, cross the Western mountains by the close of the 25th, the Great Central valleys from 26th to 28th and the Eastern States about the 29th. This disturbance will probably be at its greatest force in the Rocky Mountain States on the 25th or 26th.

The first disturbance of February will reach the Pacific coast about January 30th, cross the western mountains by the close of the 31st, the Great Central valleys from February 1st to 3d, and the Eastern States about the 4th. A cold wave will follow this storm, and will develop a low temperature, especially in the northeastern States.

Warm waves will cross the western mountains about January 24th and 30th, the Great Central Valleys January 26th and February 1st, and the Eastern States the 26th and February 3d. Cool waves will cross the western mountains about January 27th and February 2d, the Great Central Valleys January 29th and February 4th, and the Eastern States January 31st and February 6th.

February will be a cold, stormy, disagreeable month and not favorable to agriculture and horticulture in the South.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

If you will draw on paper two right-angled spirals you will have the movements of the winds to both the high and low barometers. The air comes down in, and moves out from, the high barometer and blows into and rises in a low barometer.

This wind movement cannot be thoroughly explained without illustrations, but if you desire to understand the weather, you must study out these points.

These two barometers form an inseparable pair; they live and die together and the artery of their beings is as indissoluble as was that of the Siamese twins. If you are located in the high barometer and the wind is severe, you may well know that its mate, the low barometer, contains a severe storm, though it may be a thousand miles away. To know where that storm is and the direction it is moving is a matter of interest to you, and you can know by studying the weather signs.

As you will see, when you have understood the spiral motion, the wind blows nearly in a circle within both the high and low barometers. Don't forget that the storm centers, except the tornado, are always found within the low barometers and the cooler and clearing weather is found in the high barometers.

If you stand on the outer edge of a low, facing its center, the wind will blow from your left toward your right, and if you similarly face the center of a high, the wind will blow from the right toward your left.

If your barometer tells you that you are in a low, place your left hand toward the wind and you will be facing the low or storm center; if you are in a high barometer place your right hand toward the wind and you will be facing the center of the high.

As these barometers, with the storm centers and storm waves, move from west to east, you can form correct ideas as to the weather immediately ahead.

THE WEATHER QUESTION

Is so old and yet so little understood—in fact until a few years ago the people had almost despaired of ever understanding it—that every statement made requires numerous explanations. Storms do not move directly from west to east, but that is their general course. They enter this continent on the west and leave it on the east, excepting tropical hurricanes. The storms wind about on the continent, sometimes moving south or north and very rarely they are pressed back toward the west, but not far, and they soon return to their eastward march.

To determine whether you are in the high or low barometer you must know what the normal barometer is for the month for your locality. The normal, or average barometer for January is much higher than it is for July. From about the first of April to about the last of September the North American continent is covered with a low, and from about the first of October to about the last of March by a high. The transitory high and low barometers pass through these semi-annual barometers in summer and winter.

Draw a circle around Denver and 500 miles distant, and within it the average barometer for January is 30.2. Outside of that line all the States west of the Mississippi and all south of the Ohio, except the Pacific coast, have an average of 30.15. The northeastern States range very close to 30.1 while the Pacific coast runs from 30 at sea level to 30.1 on the mountains. All this is for January, and when the barometer goes below that average it indicates the approach of clearing weather.

The numbers used above are for quicksilver barometers and are the number of inches of quicksilver in the tube that the atmosphere outside of the tube will exactly balance at sea level.

These lessons in the science of the weather are valuable, and those desiring more knowledge on the subject should preserve them for future reference.

GOLD AND SILVER PRODUCE.

What Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Annual Report Shows.

The annual report of the precious metals produced in 1893 in the States and Territories west of the Missouri, issued by President J. J. Valentine of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express, shows in the aggregate: Gold, $34,202,691; silver, $38,491,521; copper, $23,631,839; lead, $7,756,040. Total gross result, $104,081,591. The "commercial" value at which the several metals named herein have been estimated is: Silver, 74 cents per oz.; copper, 10 cents per lb.; and lead, $3 50 per cwt.

Mr. Valentine says, by way of explanation:

"As in former reports allowance must be made for probable variations from exact figures, by reason of constantly increasing facilities for transporting bullion, ores and base metals from the mines outside of the express and the difficulty of getting entirely reliable data from private sources. Estimates obtained in this way are liable to be exaggerated and are, to a considerable degree, guess work; but with some modifications on this account, made herein, the general results reached, while only approximately correct, may be accepted as the closest approximation possible under the circumstances."

The total product of the several States and Territories for 1893 was as follows:

California—Gold, $11,172,086; silver bullion, $267,005; ores and base bullion, $1,667,907; total, $13,096,948.

New Mexico—Gold, $427,541; silver, $207,857; ores and base bullion, $977,487; total, $1,642,885.

Arizona—Gold, $1,307,348; silver, $224,769; ores and base bullion, $5,858,293; total, $7,390,410.

Dakota—Gold, $2,283,000; silver, $200,000; ores and base bullion, $15,000; total, $2,483,000.

BREVITIES.

The Nevada building at the Midwinter Fair is to be turned over to Manager J. A. Yerington to-day, and it will be ready to receive exhibits next week.

H. H. Dakin, postmaster at Jamesville, Plumas county, came in yesterday afternoon on the N.C.O. He had several carloads of cattle and hogs which he was taking below.

Hon. Evan Williams of Empire passed through yesterday on his return from California. As Mr. Williams is neither a hypocrite nor an idiot he no longer trains with the goldbugs.

J. A. Huntoon, Grand Recorder of the A. O. U. W. in this jurisdiction, returned from Nashville, Tennessee, where he had been attending the session of the General Relief Board, yesterday morning.

The Corbett-Mitchell fight is expected to take place next Friday within twenty miles of Jacksonville, Florida. The railroad will not run another train over the road for five hours after that which takes the pugilists leaves.

Two counterfeiters, known as Chas. Irwin and Gus Williams, have been arrested in San Francisco. A quantity of molds, metals and bogus dollars were found in a basement where they operated. The counterfeiters are a good imitation with a perfect ring.

The reception given by the Faculty of the State University to the students and Alumni was largely attended, there being about 175 present. The time was most enjoyably spent in playing games and dancing until 11:30, when all did justice to a bounteous repast served in the study room of the dormitory. The various rooms were charmingly decorated with the various class colors.

THE McNAUGHTON CASE.

Some Unfortunate Aspects in the Case.

Yesterday in the District Court the argument was made by Clarke & Jones, attorneys for the defendant, upon a motion to grant a new trial in the case of the State vs. Duncan McNaughton, convicted of grand larceny. Judge Cheney refused to grant the motion, and sentenced the prisoner to two years in the penitentiary. In passing sentence the Court alluded in feeling terms to the unfortunate aspects of the case and said that under these circumstances he would impose a sentence of but two years.

There are many things in the case against McNaughton which excite compassion. McNaughton hitherto had borne an excellent reputation. He taught school in Elko county and several who knew him there are loth to believe him guilty of the intent to commit a crime. He was out of money and had been engaged to work in the hayfield for Mr. Evans last Summer. On one occasion upon going to the hayfield he found a valise open and papers scattered around near the residence of A. B. Williams. Near by he also found a purse containing ninety English sovereigns. He replaced the papers in the valise and notified the District Attorney where they were, but said nothing of the sovereigns. These he kept, but wrote a letter to the owner of the valise stating that he had found the money. As the reason of this letter he told the officer when arrested that it was to get the reward if any, as he might as well have it as the officers.

Soon after finding the money he was taken sick and used fifteen of the sovereigns to pay his expenses, which led to his arrest.

A Slight Collision.

Yesterday afternoon while the yardmen were switching five V. & T. cars on the S. P. track the cars were given a push by the engine and when the brakemen climbed up on them he found they had been switched on the wrong track. Before they could be checked they bumped into the S. P. yard engine, breaking up the wooden parts on the front of it and damaging the end of one of the cars to some extent.

BARLOW'S MINSTRELS.

Home Indorsement of the Company.

The Barlow Minstrels gave an entertainment at Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, Thursday night. The Enterprise says:

"The Minstrels pleased the large audience present and vindicated the statement of the manager that it is one of the best minstrel troupes on the road. The first part was brilliant and the double quartette of end men emphasized their title to 'hilarity kings,' if the applause received is an indication of recognized merit.

"The vocal solos were rendered by fine voices and the instrumental parts were brilliantly executed, and the entire entertainment was pronounced equal to that provided by the best minstrel organizations that have appeared at the Opera House."

The Minstrels showed at Carson last night and will appear at the Opera House here this evening. The grand street parade will take place at 12:30 o'clock to-day.

Mr. Larkin

Whole Family Helped

"My husband was confined to the house, almost unable to walk, on account of an ulcer on his left leg. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and at once there were signs of improvement. He was soon able to go to work again. My oldest son was stricken down with rheumatic fever. After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a short time he soon recovered his health. At the same time I became all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me much good." Mrs. S. S. LARKIN, Chico, Butte County, California.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient, yet easy in action. Sold by all druggists. 25c.
